Eval. Notes:	A VSQG inspection was conducted at Power Container Corp. (PCC). The facility representative present at the time of this inspection was Mr. Wayne Meyers, Manager. This facility was previously inspected by the Hazardous Waste Program on 9/25/2007, with no violations issued. In the past, PCC operated as Exxel Container Ind. but was bought out many years ago changing their name to PCC. In RCRA Info the name of the company is still Exxel Container, therefore, information was provided to PCC in order to update the name in RCRA Info. PCC operates as a manufacturer of a pressurized airless dispensing systems (bag on valve system) used in the cosmetic, household, and food product industries. This site consists of a large warehouse, office space, manufacturing area and a QA/QC laboratory. The manufactured component consists of a bladder like system which is made out of polyethylene terephthalate pellets (PET plastic). These pellets are pressed and formed into shape using one of eleven heat/injection molding machines located onsite. Once formed, actuators (manufactured offsite) are then placed on each dispensing system. Canisters/bottles used for the exterior can are manufactured offsite. No hazardous waste is generated from the manufacturing process. VSQG amounts of hazardous waste are periodically generated when PCC receives customers products to determine if their system is capable of dispensing their product. According to Mr. Meyers, although only a small amount of product is needed to test their system, customers typically send PCC their product in bulk. Once PCC has finished testing their system, any leftover product received from customers is disposed of as either hazardous or non-hazardous waste. At the time of this inspection, one 15-gallon container was observed onsite containing waste flammable liquids (D001). According to Mr. Meyers, this container was leftover product received from a customer. The container was found properly marked
